TITLE DEEDS RECOVERED.

When man lost his title deeds to liberty and independence of action he became a slave to a power foreign to the plan of his creation. He became dwarfed in mental stature and was a plaything for the more fortunate who by means of circumstances took the title of leader or ruler in the affairs of men.

Cities and nations were given form, but he continued a slave to the ambition of those who by common consent were leaders. Physical force was superior to intellect, which abolished for the time the fact of intellectual greatness, as it bowed before a force it could not control.

The emancipation of the mind has been slow and the cost of its freedom has been more than the records made by men can disclose. Freedom of thought and action is man's heritage and he has learned its value for his individual protection and for the protection of society. He has in the last two centuries received his title deeds to freedom, which have been duly recorded in the annals of these centuries to remain as the most fascinating as well as the most instructive reading for all future generations.

The power of the intellect through the better sentiments of the mind is unequally overcoming brute force to the dismay of those who claim to power is without right, as it rests upon us in the time of ignorance, when men were everywhere seeking shelter from the prevailing consequences of physical force.

Freedom of the intellect had within it the liberty of body and soul which has been so manifest in all the doings of the race the last century. The earth has been bound with bands of iron and the lightning have been made messengers of thought expressing it in language to the utmost parts of the earth.

When liberty is mentioned it is too often without a meaning adequate to its importance and weight to the future advancement which will be made through its presence and use. In the eighteenth century true ideals about liberty had taken hold upon the minds of men, but they seemed to be on the surface of thought where they remained till near its close, when they entered and took full possession of the mind to the astonishment of many in the world when their doings became open to inspection by those whose position had no use for innovation, which liberalized the thoughts and doings of men.

The first great contest involved the right to speak and write upon matters pertaining to the natural rights of the people which in time was secured. The right when secured proved to be the entering wedge to the destruction of absolutism at that time among the more advanced nations of Western Europe. The efforts of the people to secure the right to write and speak were more or less successful as circumstances unfolded the work under an increasing conviction of the true position they should occupy toward the governing power which time and usage had established for their direction in civil and military matters.

When the right to write and speak had been secured by a few of the nations then came the demand for the right to participate in government which received its first acknowledgment in all of its fullness in the United States, which explains the cause there has been for a people seeking liberty to turn their eyes and minds to the western world for comfort and moral support in their efforts to secure liberty through self-government.

The most exalted position at any time occupied by any people who had taken an independent national existence, was the position of the people of the United States during the first century of their national existence, when all struggling peoples sought and received their moral support when engaged in an effort to improve their political condition by securing a more liberal form of government representation.

line their natural rights, as understood and known by advanced men in knowledge about the practical side of liberal government.

It seems the people have retrograded from the high position they occupied during the first century of their national existence, but it is only in seeming that they have faded in knowledge and positive action as there is no truth connected with these appearances. There is no such thing in the order of development as retrogression. Do not be deceived by what appears to be a disregard for the higher ideals represented by self-government. Their fires were burning with as much force and splendor as in the olden time when their lights were dimmed by smoke from burning smudge kindled by President McKinley and his advisers and abettors in Porto Rico and in the Philippines.

The time and the occasion have not come to make known the force there is to liberal ideals as they are entertained at the beginning of the twentieth century. Thought upon the subject of freedom, as it continues to become more universal through knowledge and conviction is becoming more strong, more active and more intelligent in expression throughout the world.

Those who attempt to overcome the spirit of freedom in the race will undertake an impossibility which will necessarily end in discomfiture and may be in their destruction. Strikes are mutterings that should not be disregarded by the wise, as overconfidence often leads to disastrous results, and more particularly are such results to be avoided since man has recovered his title deeds to liberty and has learned to read them.

SAGEBRUSH OCCURRENCES

Happenings in this State Gleamers From our Nevada Exchange

A man named J. A. Wilson was stuck in a train at Carlin and received injuries which may prove fatal. The Record says that in December Douglas county will, for the first time in eighteen years, be on a cash basis, so that claims can be paid as soon as due.

The committee on literary exercises for the Carson carnival has mapped out its program already. Judge Fitzgerald of the Supreme Court will be president of the day. Hon. E. S. Farwell of Elko, orator of the day, and Hon. James Sweeney of Carson, will read the Declaration of Independence.

Prof. M. E. Randall and Miss Clara McGonagle have been re-elected teachers of the Battle Mountain school.

The Austin School Census Marshal reports the number of school children as being 190, a loss of 42 from last year. This will necessitate the reduction of the force of teachers from four to three.

The Eureka and Palisade railroad, rolling stock and all company property is advertised to be sold at special master's sale on July 17th. The judgment against the road amounts to $134,000.

The Lovelock Tribune says another fourth class postmaster in Humboldt county has been found making false returns in his cancellations.

ABOUT MINE AND MINER

Notes Gathered From Exchanges About This Industry.

The Dexter mine at Tuscarora shipped $10,000 worth of bullion last month.

There seems to be no longer any doubt that the Gardner mine, six miles east of Carson, will be developed speedily. The News says that over 23,000 shares of the stock have been sold. Work will begin in a few days and should the ledge continue down a mill and tramway will be built.

The news has reached this office says the White Pine News, from a reliable source, that the preliminary steps have been taken in the East within the past few days for the organization of a giant company to develop the mines in the vicinity of Elko in which Mrs. McKinley is the principal owner.

The placer mines at Pine Nut are running with a crew of six men. Work was started on the sluices about a month ago, and it is thought that there will be sufficient water to last until the 1st of August, when the clean-up will be made that is expected to astonish everyone with its extreme richness. —Gardnerville Record.

Yesterday the Delaware Gold Mining Company was incorporated under the laws of Nevada. The articles were filed with the Secretary of State. Over 27,000 shares of stock have been sold, which assures those interested that work will commence on the property at an early date.

Reports from De Lamar, Nev., are all preliminary of a bang-up at the De Lamar mill if not a close down at the old bonanza, at which, it is said, the ore bodies have been seriously impoverished.

The Rocco-Homestake Mining Company of Hamilton have made satisfactory arrangements for the reduction of their ores and have resumed shipping.

De Lamar Lode. George Fetterman says Thursday for a point forty miles from Tonopah in response to a letter from a friend who reports having struck it rich.

The Dexter-Tuscarora Company have arranged to make their bullion shipments hereafter through the Postal Department instead of by Express, as heretofore.

THE CROP BULLETIN.

Weather.—The weather of the week ending June 17th was remarkably cool throughout the State, the temperature averaging about degrees per day below normal. Snow fell on the mountains in eastern and northern sections on the 10th and 12th, and heavy and destructive frosts occurred on the 11th and 14th. Considerable hail fell in the east portion on the 12th. The eastern portion of the State was favored with good showers the middle of the week. Old nights and frosty mornings prevailed, except the last two days which were somewhat warmer.

CROPS.—The following reports of correspondents indicate that the weather conditions of the week were generally unfavorable to the growing and maturing crops, which are not making rapid growth on account of the prevailing cold weather. The heavy and killing frosts of the 11th and 14th caused great damage in eastern and northern districts to fruit, alfalfa, potatoes and garden truck. In portions of Elko county, potatoes were cut to the ground and the fruit crop practically destroyed. Considerable damage was also done in other localities to potatoes, alfalfa and garden truck. The first crop of alfalfa is being harvested in western districts, with indications of a light yield. The grain crops appear to be in good condition, but making slow progress on account of the prevailing low night temperature.

Range feed is fine and abundant and livestock is in good condition.

How Trout Are Artificially Propogated at the Hatchery Near Verdi.

The Journal is indebted to Fish and Game Warden Merklinger and Deputy Merrill for the following interesting facts:

There are two species of trout in the Truckee River, namely the cut-throat, or native trout (salmo mykiss) and the rainbow (salmo iridens).

The cut-throat trout are most abundant in our lakes, while the rainbow trout are absolutely a stream fish, rarely, if ever, making their way to the lakes. The rainbow trout are not indigenous to our waters. As nearly as can be ascertained, the first introduction of these fish into the Truckee was made by the California Fish Commission some fourteen years ago, and they have gradually increased even under very unfavorable circumstances until we now have a supply of parent fish that will justify an expenditure for their future protection, that they may be artificially propogated.

The summer home for the most of the breeding fish (rainbow) is in deep, quiet pools in and about the Truckee meadows, and probably yet lower down. The cut-throats seek their haunts in Pyramid lake.

Each year at the breaking of the winter weather the fish ascend the river to spawn and continue to press forward until stopped or retarded by obstructions such as dams that prevent them from reaching the head waters, which are adapted to their necessities.

The time for spawning is from February until May, inclusive. The eggs drift into crevices, sinking to the bottom, and remain in that protected position during incubation here, also, the young remain until the imbibition sac is absorbed and the eggs and young are

NEVADA'S RESOURCES.

"Van" Paints the Future of the State in Roseate
Hues

C. D. Van Duzer was on the Comstock the forepart of the week, looking up data for his book on the resources of Nevada, says the Argus. Mr. Van Duzer, who has been over Western Nevada, speaks very encouragingly regarding the outlook.

"Reno," says Mr. Van Duzer, "has shown a more substantial growth than any city its size on the Pacific Coast, and will shortly have 10,000 population."

Tonopah, the new Comstock of Nevada, is giving promise of becoming the best and liveliest mining camp on the coast. The deeper they go the richer the ore and wider the vein.

"Yerington is the center of a new copper belt that rivals Butte. A large smelter is in operation, and over 150 men are employed in the valley, the mine and smelter. Enough ore is in sight to run the smelter five years."

"As promising as Nevada now appears, I believe that both the agricultural riches and mineral wealth of the future lies in Humboldt county, whose expansive valleys will, in time, support a large population and whose mountains contain gold, copper and silver in abundance."

Mr. Van Duzer will shortly begin a buck-board trip over Eastern Nevada gathering material for his forthcoming publication on Nevada, her resources and possibilities.

ODD FELLOWS IN SESSION.

The Grand Lodge Elects Officers for the ensuing Year.

Yesterday the grand lodge of Nevada, I. O. O. F., was in session in Masonic Hall. There was a large attendance, nearly two hundred votes being cast. Of this number more than one-half were represented in person.

Grand Master Jacobs presided. Reports were read by the various grand officers, showing that the past year was one of great progress for the order.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows:

ATTENTION.

Members of Ivy Lodge No. 4, D. of H. A. O. U. W. are requested to meet at Investment Hall at 10 o'clock a. m., Wednesday, June 14th to attend the funeral of our late sister, Mrs. Joseph Seamon. By order of C. of H. MRS. JENNIE KERR, Recorder.

ODD FELLOWS
ENTERTAINED

The Members of the Grand Lodge
Tendered a Reception.

Last evening the members of Reno Lodge, No. 14, I. O. O. F., and Nevada Lodge, No. 7, Order of Rebekahs, tendered a reception in Investment Hall to the Grand Lodge.

The hall was crowded, a number of guests being present in addition to the "fraternity" people. An interesting program was rendered. It opened with an instrumental solo by Miss Curnow. J. E. Brann delivered the address of welcome. There was a vocal solo by Miss Schadler followed by a recitation by Mr. Sedgewick.

A duet was played by the Misses Welshon. G. W. Cottrell delivered an address on Odd Fellowship.

A humorous sketch was given by Messrs. Dann and Blair. An instrumental solo was played by Mrs. Jacobs. Newton Jacobs sang.

A song by Mr. Blair and a cornet solo by Richard Tublin completed the program. At its conclusion a banquet was served.

Visit to the Hatchery.

A Journal representative visited the hatchery above Verdi that is being operated by the California Fish Commission. The establishment has a capacity of 1,200,000 fry. The lake last year was 1,057,000. This season it will amount to 1,100,000.

Two men are employed at the hatchery. Their positions are not insecure by any means. The trout are taken from the Nevada side of the line, by permission of the Board of Commissioners of Washoe county. In return for this courtesy, a portion of the young fish are placed in the river below the paper mill dam. The balance of the fry are used to repopulate the streams of California.

NEVADA SUNSET.

Sam Wheeler has returned from Bakewell where he spent a week looking over the ground of the Nevada Sunset Oil Company. This is a corporation that was formed in Reno and located in California.

Mr. Wheeler says boring is in progress and that the drill is penetrating sandstone. The signs for striking oil in a short distance are very promising.

THE BALLOTING.

Yesterday the ballots for Queen of the Carnival stood as follows:

Miss Kate Schulz 295
Miss Nellie Epstein 291
Miss Rose Bergman 281
Miss Venie Roberts 100
Miss Rubel Martin 88
Miss Florence Hawkins 70
Miss Vern Novakovich 46

Mrs. A. V. Stevenson (nee Lola Cross) of Oakland is here visiting her sisters, Mrs. C. H. Stoddard and Mrs. W. Seaton. As Miss Cross was one of Reno's society belles four years ago.

HAPPENINGS
AT VERDI.

What They Are Doing in the Busy Little Burg Up the Truckee.

TWO BOLD, BAD MEN.

Two men attempted to hold up W. A. Wood Sunday evening about 10 p. m. Mr. Wood was returning from the western part of the town and when near the lumber yard two men who had apparently been following him closed in, one striking Wood a blow in the face, Wood returned the blow and ran.

The two evidently became frightened as they beat a hasty retreat. Officer Cook arrested two men but they could not be identified. The same evening some one entered the house of Ed. Lonkey and turned things upside down in their search for valuables.

Some one supposed to be the same parties made two attempts to enter Walter Hastings house but were frightened away.

ONE MORE UNFORTUNATE.

A man was found dead about a mile east of town Monday afternoon. He had either been struck by a train or had fallen from one while riding outside the former theory being the more probable.

When found he was about thirty feet from the track having first struck upon his face about ten feet from the rail and bounded down the incline where his head, struck a rock which was against a postcrushing his skull. From papers found upon him he was probably deaf as he had been corresponding with a firm relative to purchasing artificial ear drums. His tax receipts issued from Mendocino county, Cal., show his name as J. Lineard. Coroner Peers took charge of the body.

SHOK ONES.

Mrs. J. N. Evans and party spent a couple of days at the Truckee River Country Club. Quite a number of guests are now domiciled there.

L. M. Brown who is to manage the Verdi Owl for Bearley & Unlacke is planning to have a number of much needed improvements made to the interior of the building to be occupied.

An electric storm passed over Verdi Tuesday afternoon. Anglers will experience another set back on its account.

Jas. P. Morrill and bride arrived Sunday evening.

A. I. McGrew is back from San Francisco.

J. F. Condon, C. Lonkey and Thos. Hiley drove to Truckee Sunday.

DESTROYING THE ONIONS.

One of Washoe's Produ to Threatened by the Wire-worm.

(Concluded)

So far as this year's crop is concerned, but little can be done to prevent further destruction. The adult wireworms have ceased to feed and the onions are now far enough advanced to resist the attacks of the younger ones.

The following treatment is recommended: As soon as the onion crop is harvested this fall plow up the land to the depth of one foot and expose as many of the worms and pupae to insectivorous birds, that are very fond of them. This might be done as frequently as time will permit. Continue the same treatment during the winter months and many of the worms will be frozen as their tendency is to go deeper and deeper into the soil as the "root line" increases.

In the spring and at least one month before the sowing of the onion crop, spread along with well rotted manure about 1000 pounds of refuse gas lime per acre and plow under. The sulphide which is present in fresh gas lime will kill all vegetation and insects, and by the time the soil is ready for use the sulphide will be converted into sulphate of lime (gypsum) which is applicable in various ways as manure.

It will also be noticed that it is the onions growing in the sandy and poorer soil in the field that suffer most from the attacks of the pest. These therefore should be more liberally supplied with manure in order that a vigorous growth may be secured from the first. The plants will then push on and get over the attack where weak plants would sink under it.

As wireworms are omnivorous and will destroy almost every kind of crop that is commonly sown, the utmost precaution must be given at all times to "prevent its ravages."

The pest has probably existed in the meadows surrounding the fields for some time, but has only lately chosen the onion as a favorable change of diet, finding them more juicy and of a finer flavor than the grass roots.

Respectfully,
F. HENNING KENNEDY,
Agr. Exp. Station, Nevada State University.
